World Heritage Sites in Republic of Macedonia The Republic of Macedonia has one site inscribed on the UNESCO World Heritage List: the Upper Thracian Monuments of Kratovo. In 2016, UNESCO inscribed the Thracian Tomb of Korykos on the list. The site is located in the town of Korytsa in western Macedonia. It is considered to be one of the best-preserved and most important monuments of the Thracian art. The tomb was used between the 3rd and 1st century BC. In the 1960s, this monument was unearthed when a local villager discovered an intact underground burial chamber. The 1st century BC Tomb of the Eagles, built in the form of a gladiatorial arena, is located on a remote small hill in the village of Demir Hisar. The complex consists of a nearly 5x10 m long columned building located in the centre of the arena. It has five openings and was used as a royal tomb of an ancient Thracian aristocratic family. The UNESCO World Heritage Site of the Upper Thracian Monuments of Kratovo, is an archaeological site located in the city of Kratovo, North Macedonia. It is one of the largest archaeological sites in the Balkans and the highest point of the Skopska Krajina hill range. The site contains ruins from the Neolithic, Bronze and Iron Ages, including the remains of the Fortress of the Thracian Kings. The site is a rare example of the Neolithic communities in the region who left only ruins of dwellings and hillforts. The Thracian Tomb of Korykos is the UNESCO World Heritage Site in North Macedonia. It is a Thracian tomb located in a village of Korytsa, in the town of Kratovo. It dates 2d92ce491b
