Our front and back end tests are run in the same code as our server tests (which are also split into front and back end). Our backend and front end tests have an identical POST method (we have a few others as well), so we are using a signature in them like so: POST GET DELETE PUT Headers

When I launch the app, the main screen is a simple navigation bar, with no "my account" option, even though I have enough reputation to appear on the Stack Exchange main page. I'm starting to think it is a bug, so I would like to report it. Any ideas? A: The /apps/{appname}/help is now properly triggered. The /help path was not redirecting to the /apps/{appname}/help. FRANKFURT (Reuters) - German insurer Allianz will spend about 20 billion euros ($25 billion) on the stock market between 2018 and 2023 as it searches for ways to counter a drop in profit at its investment arm, two people with direct knowledge of the matter said. FILE PHOTO: A 3D-printed figurine of a human eye sits on a desk in this illustration picture taken July 24, 2017. REUTERS/Dado Ruvic/Illustration/File Photo The boost to Allianz's share price and dividend is set to come at a time of low market volatility and as the insurer is revising its strategic priorities to refocus on life and health. Allianz, Europe's second-largest insurer, plans to increase the share of premiums in its investment activities over the next five years. Allianz, which ranks as the fifth-largest investor in the world, had raised the funds through a combination of direct investment, bonds, loans and a two-stage share sale, the sources said. But it does not plan to float the fund within the next year, the sources added. As of 31 December 2017, its premium-based portfolio, as well as its bank unit GLS, had an aggregate return of 3.6 percent, including fees, and a net investment return of 4.5 percent, the source said.
