she will know how to make it. This question may seem silly. But when you're in the heat of things and you're all riled up, how do you find your mood in words and thoughts instead of actions? Chances are, you're still fighting your emotions and you probably still have a spark of love within you. You're not as hot and you're not as cold as you were before you got drunk. That's the answer to your question. i think you are reading way too much into the situation. all the other replies are just as valid as this. Funny because of one or two posts in this topic, people think they know me. And I have no problem with that, because I think I know people. But to assume and label me is just untrue. I love a pretty thing. It doesn't make me shallow. I love the sound of it falling on the ground. I believe it is you that is shallow. Ok, so you found someone who isn't as shallow as you are. What do you do now? Do you go and hang out with her and her family and listen to all her sad songs and make her feel worse? LOL, are you really that fickle? You are shallow because you judged her without knowing her. She was probably that girl she was with in High School, the one who acted like a queen to everyone because she was prettier, but in reality she was quite shy and pretty much just gave you her number and called you a friend when you both hung out in the summer. She was also probably not that fun to be around because you probably didn't know how to have fun with her and you just tried to drink her dry.Q: How to change datetime format in oracle? I have problem with format of a field in my Oracle database. There is string in this format: 2019-01-01 00:00:00 When I try to print this row in my select statement like this select name, smalldatetimeformat, age from mytable I get the following Name f3e1b3768c
