1. Field of the Invention The present invention generally relates to a laser processing apparatus and a laser processing method, and more particularly, to a technology which can be applied to reduce processing time and increase the efficiency of a pulse emission to achieve appropriate processing.

2. Description of the Related Art Laser processing apparatuses are used for processing a workpiece to be processed by projecting a laser beam in a predetermined shape onto the workpiece (for example, a wafer) placed on a processing table. One example of the laser processing apparatus is disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 6,741,493. The laser processing apparatus includes a f θ lens (f θ lens) moving toward the direction of an optical axis of a laser beam, and a rotation mirror moving along the direction of the optical axis of the laser beam. When using this laser processing apparatus, it is necessary to prevent the f θ lens and the rotation mirror from interfering with each other during the work of a wafer. For this reason, the laser processing apparatus is provided with a space between the f θ lens and the rotation mirror, and the f θ lens and the rotation mirror are moved along a predetermined path. However, with this configuration, it is very difficult to increase the width of the laser beam so as to make the operation time shorter.
