Goodday. I have downloaded Math Input Panel from the link you provided, and installed it for Windows 7 11 bit. Now I am using this Math Input Panel for writing Math and Math Manipulation functions in C. In Windows 8.1 where I installed this Math Input Panel, a shortcut is displayed as shown below : How can I do this on Windows 8.1? I do not want a new shortcut on desktop, but to get this running of this panel. Your help with this would be appreciated. Thanks. MacGuy MathGuy October 24, 2013 12:53 In Windows 8.1 where I installed this Math Input Panel, a shortcut is displayed as shown below : Will it work on Windows 8.1? I do not want a new shortcut on desktop, but to get this running of this panel. Your help with this would be appreciated. Thanks. As you understand I am talking about Math Input Panel. No, it will not work on Windows 8.1. You can install it using Ultra32 all you want, but it won't work on Windows 8.1 due to the hidden environment changes that occur. There is no setting for this currently. Now to use it, go to C:\programdata\microsoft\Windows\SysWOW64\mni. The default is math.drw That's it.
