Make a blank sheet, not complex, but not too simple either. Make sure the sheet is empty. Now with Autocad open, go to the menu and choose Draw -> 3D -> Sheet -> Pro (use Pro while drawing) -> Activate. You will be prompted for a password. Open the properties of the sheet, and set the "Show Properties" to off. Now go to the menu and choose Format -> Properties. Type the password in, and click the Set Password button. Make a print out, and check to make sure all properties are locked. Save the file somewhere safe. Update: You have to use a special key for this, if you don't know it, just contact Tech Support. If you don't do that, you will have to wait a very long time. A: As "the other AutoCAD" I know the secret code :B (or "be") You can use this code to activate your subscription :) A study of TSH concentrations in cerebrospinal fluid in patients with multiple sclerosis. Measurement of TSH concentrations in cerebrospinal fluid (CSF) may be used to differentiate between diseases that share certain clinical features. We measured TSH concentrations in the CSF of patients with multiple sclerosis (MS) to determine if the increased TSH concentration we observed in plasma would also be present in the CSF. We also attempted to determine if there was any difference in TSH concentration between MS patients and controls. TSH concentrations were measured in the CSF of 27 MS patients and 22 normal controls using a TSH radioimmunoassay. We observed a significantly higher TSH concentration in the CSF of MS patients than controls (7.0 mU/l vs 2.0 mU/l, p Mathematics for the interested outsider Specular Reflection Let's say you're lighting a scene from a particular direction and you want to make sure that the light is hitting your actor just right. In this case, we're going to work
