What's New in the Ensnare?

===== Ensnare is a swing based java program which automates screenshots and makes them available in three image formats, namely jpegs, gifs and bitmaps. It provides a screen annotation feature which enables you to draw (in any on-screen color / given palette color) and add labels on the screen (zoom in and select an area) before capturing it along with the annotations. In addition, it's capable of recording the screen into a QuickTime video clip. The following features are provided: - There is no limit to the number of screenshots you can take. - All the screenshots taken are available for later use. - The user has the freedom to view the individual screen captures or the annotations. - Screenshots can be saved in any of the three image formats, jpegs, gifs or bitmaps. - A macro mode is available to capture a screenshot and add annotations without the need to manually specify the area to be captured. - An interactive mode is provided to directly record the screen into a QuickTime movie clip. - The program provides a built-in color palette with many standard colors as well as many custom colors which can be selected by using the on-screen menu. - The user can select a different color for the screen annotations, screen capture colors and the on-screen menu color. - A viewfinder window is provided to see the on-screen colors. - The program is capable of distinguishing between constant and variable background colors. - The program is capable of automatically detecting the active window/dialog box on the screen and auto-capture it along with the annotations. The screenshot capture process is quite simple. Just press the "Capture" button (spacebar by default) and wait for the program to take the screenshot. You can optionally set a delay time if you want to make sure that the screen will not change. The screenshot capture process and the annotations are saved as separate files. There is no limit to the number of screenshots you can take. The screenshots will be saved in the folder specified on the "Save screenshot to:" option. If the folder doesn't exist, it will be created. Screenshots are named according to the time it was captured, e.g. "00-10-05-17_1.jpeg" where "17" is the capture time in minutes and seconds (in the format of "mm-ss-yy-dd_HH"). The program also displays this time in the status bar. The user has the freedom to view the individual screen captures or the annotations. The user can select either of the two options to view the screenshot - - The individual screenshot (single image) - The annotations (a small bitmap showing the annotations) The user can view the screen capture with or without the annotations.
