_ Types of Photoshop_ The various Photoshop operations are grouped into their corresponding "type" or category. The type of an operation is displayed in the Layers panel (Window menu) that indicates the type of editing it does to the layer on which it operates. Each type of operation has a corresponding menu with specialized options. The following are the primary Photoshop operations and their functions. Some of these operations are grouped to show their primary purposes. Basic --- Convert to Grayscale (Image Menu) | Enables the conversion of an image from color to grayscale. Correct Color (Image Menu) | Corrects colors in the image based on a color reference. Crop (Image Menu) | Creates a rectangular selection on an image layer that enables you to remove portions of the picture. The crop tool creates an unsplit selection that can be edited after the operation. Draw (Image Menu) | Creates an outline. Erosion (Image Menu) | Removes the boundaries of objects in an image. This tool creates a "dilatation" effect. Fill (Image Menu) | Enables the filling of an area on an image layer with any color. Flood-Filling (Image Menu) | Enables the filling of an area in a layer. Layer Masks (Image Menu) | Creates a temporary selection on the layer's image that can be edited and viewed. It is used to isolate areas of one layer from the rest of the layer. Liquify (Image Menu) | Simulates the effect of pouring or crushing an image. It spreads the pixels in a specified area to create a ripple effect. Merge (Image Menu) | Fuses the pixels in the selected areas of one or more layers together. It creates a combined image. Motion (Image Menu) | Creates an animation effect. Paint (Image Menu) | Enables the painting of pixels on the image layer. Pixelate (Image Menu) | Creates the effect of speckling or dotting pixels in an area. Rename (Image Menu) | Renames the layer. It enables you to change the name of the layer so it is not inadvertently changed. Sketch (Image Menu) | Creates a temporary sketch on an image layer. Spot Healing Brush (Image Menu) | En

Pixlr Editor is a free image editor. With it you can edit, resize, crop, color correct and enhance your photos. Here are some of the most powerful and effective text effects for photoshop. We hope you find the following text effects useful. Enjoy! 30 Photoshop Text Effects 1. Clever Text Effects for Photoshop Text effects can make a boring image come to life. Make your text pictures appealing with these trendy effects. 1. Highlight Text Highlight text Highlight Text is useful when you want to create a dramatic effect. To highlight your text, place the text layer into the Layers panel, then click the Text tool in the Tools panel. Move your cursor to the beginning of the text, click with the right mouse button, and then click again on the beginning of the text. You will see the text highlighted in your picture. You can add a stroke to highlight text. Click on the Stroke tool to make one. Make it thick and black and you can set its color as well. You can also add a drop shadow to highlight text. Click on the Shadow tool to make one. Make its opacity low and fill it with black. You can fill the drop shadow with a color to make it blend better with the picture's color. Highlight Text can be useful for something other than the title of your picture. You can create a text highlight effect by placing a red text layer into a new document and using the Curves tool to lighten the text. 2. Add a Twist to Your Text Add a subtle twist To add a twist to your text, place a new text layer into your picture. Then use the Text tool. Select the font you want to use and place it in the text layer. Then use the Selection tool to select all the text. Use the Transform tool to make the text invert the letters in your word. By inverting the text, the letters will appear on the other side of your text. To make the twist more obvious, you can change the opacity of the layer. You can also use the Blend tool to make the twist more subtle. 3. Make Blurry Text Come to Life Blurry text effect Blurry Text is a cool way to add a subtle blur to your text. 05a79cecff

Africa's biggest online gaming platform, Naspers, is to set up a new office in Malta. In a statement dated 1 February 2019, the company says that it has signed a Letter of Intent to establish an office in Grand Harbour Malta, with the purpose of exploring the possibilities of engaging with Maltese gaming companies and organizations. A spokesman for Naspers told IBTimes UK: "We have always been looking for a suitable location to set up an office for our tech functions. It makes sense to be close to the major tech hub in London, as that is home to the majority of our tech teams." "The presence in Malta is significant for the region as a whole," said the spokesman. "When we look at the total value of the Maltese economy, the figure is approximately US$14.6 billion, and we estimate that approximately 50 percent of the work force at this level of the local economy is involved in the gaming sector." "Therefore, the potential for collaboration with the gaming sector in Malta, and the opportunity to find opportunities for collaboration with these companies, is significant." The people management function is likely to be located in Naspers' current office in London. The company's Tech Hub, which is based in the Naspers Software House in Ireland, will continue to play a significant role in the company's global tech operations. Why Malta? For a few years, Malta has been considered a potential location for a regulatory sandbox for new technology firms seeking to enter the global market. The European Commission's decision to create the said regulatory sandbox was based on a recommendation from the European Parliament back in June 2018. The sandbox regulation came after it had been suggested the European Union needed to step up protection of consumers from harmful and addictive online behavioural advertising. The sandbox, which is due to operate in the first half of 2020, could result in online businesses becoming regulated as telecom services under EU law and the EU's 2019 rules on privacy. "We are focused on developing disruptive, experimental and innovative technologies and products. Malta will offer us an environment where we can test our innovations and continue our studies," said the Naspers spokesman. "The Grand Harbour development will also provide Malta with opportunities to serve as a global gateway for businesses in the digital era." Naspers already has a presence in Malta through a

Q: Erlang Merge Process with List and Timestamp I am trying to merge two lists, and time stamps in case of merge where there was a time change. The merge function is the following: merge([],[]). merge([T1|T1s], [T2|T2s]) -> [merge(T1s,T2s)]; merge([T|Ts], [T2|T2s]) -> [merge([T|Ts],T2s)]; merge([T|Ts], [_|T2s]) -> [merge(T,T2s)]; merge([H|T1s], [T2|T2s]) -> merge(T1s,T2). merge([_|T2s], [_|T2s]) -> []. The time stamp is the following ... merge([T|T2s], [T1|T1s]) -> [merge([T|T2s],T1)]; merge([T|T2s], [H|T1s]) -> merge(T2s,T1s); merge([_|T2s], [_|T2s]) -> []. In case of merge([T|T2s], [T1|T1s]), if T is less than T1 then the item is considered and all items, after the item T are considering it too. So the merge function is like the following: merge([T1,T2,T3,T4|T5], [H|T1s]) -> [merge([T1,T2,T3,T4|T5], [H|T1s])]. As you can see H is added and T4 is NOT added. In case of merge([T1,T2,T3,T4|T5], [T1,T2,T3,T4|T5]), if T is less than T1 then the item is considered and all items, after the item T are considering it too. The output should be the following: [T1,T2,T3,T4,H,T5] But the output I get is the
