Search engines index every word in the world's biggest library and when it comes to getting relevant results, they're very smart. However, getting too much help from them makes us feel like we're looking through the clouds. You're not, but this is what it feels like when you use Google. You're getting lots of information but you're still not finding what you're looking for. VividClix will change this by suggesting keywords to you while you're searching. The amount of keywords is unlimited so it will give you ideas as to how to make your search better. While VividClix will suggest keywords that you can use in any search engine, it does have an add-on for Google that makes it a lot more powerful. The Google add-on will recommend keywords based on the page you're currently on. VividClix Goals: VividClix can help you find what you're looking for when you're looking for something. It also helps you make sure what you're finding is really the right thing. When you're searching for something or when you're completing a task, VividClix will help you out by offering quick, relevant suggestions. You won't have to waste a lot of time and energy on the wrong search results. VividClix further enhances the power of search engines by showing the keywords that the engine hasn't suggested yet. You'll see what other words people are searching for and you will be able to use those words instead.

relatively uncommon injuries, and there is little literature guiding treatment, especially in the younger population. We present the retrospective results of 23 children with a mean age of 10 years (range, 3-17 years) treated over 5 years for medial epicondylar fractures. Twenty-two boys and one girl with a mean age of 11 years (range, 3-17 years) sustained a medial epicondylar fracture in a sport-related incident with a mean delay to treatment of 25 days (range, 3-52 days).

Initial treatment consisted of a closed reduction under anaesthesia with cast immobilisation for 2 weeks, and all patients subsequently progressed to cast immobilisation followed by functional rehabilitation. Functional outcome was assessed using the Paediatric Outcome Measurement Information System (POMIS) and the Children's Hand Outcomes (CHO) questionnaires at a mean follow-up of 59 months (range, 36-114 months). Twenty-one patients (91%) achieved a good or excellent outcome. Five patients (22%) reported a minor limitation of motion and two patients (9%) reported a major restriction of their elbow function at final follow-up. Four patients (17%) reported significant limitations in their upper extremity function (CHO subscale score, 9.2 ± 3.6). Our data suggest that treatment by closed reduction and cast immobilisation in the children younger than 10 years may lead to satisfactory clinical and functional outcomes at final follow-up.Arthur Hogan Arthur Hogan (1847 – 15 March 1923) was a politician in colonial Victoria. He was a member of the Victorian Legislative Council. Hogan was born in Castlemaine, Victoria, son of Thomas Hogan and his wife Ann. He was educated by the Prahran Academy and was founder and first President of the Cliftonia Football Club.
